Camera Glimpses of New York City's Most Recent Parades—For Woman Suffrage and the Liberty Loan

Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, chairman of the Woman Suffrage party of New York State, marched enthusiastically at the head of her own delegation.

Miss Neve McMein, the artist, for so many of cover the magazines

Mrs. Oliver Harriman headed the mothers, wives and sisters of our sailors and soldiers—a division that aroused enthusiasm all along the line.

This huge American flag preceded a large division of prominent New York business men.

On the right—Mrs. Herbert S. Carpenter, prominent suffragist, made a striking figure carrying silken Stars and Stripes.

"It's the most impressive showing for suffrage that could be made," said Borough President Marks as the mothers, wives and sweethearts in the Service Division swept by, bearing their big service flag.

The smallest, perhaps of the marchers was the tiny Japanese actress, Mme. Komako Kimura.
